ISRAJIF Evaluation Methodology

ISRA: JIF are designed to assess significance and performance of individual journals, their role and position in the international formal and informal communication network, their quality or prestige as perceived by scholars and researchers. Scientific journals may differ with respect to their importance of their position in the journal communication system, their status or prestige.

ISRA:JIF developed and promulgated by International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) and regularly published in the annual JIF reports of is a fundamental citation-based measure for significance and performance of journals and proceedings. Wherever the JIF report is available, a variety of journal contextual citation measures including and beyond the JIF can readily be built and calculated. If this is done based on a sound methodology and if the process steps are properly documented, bibliometric tools with wide fields of applications in the field of science information, information retrieval and research evaluation can be obtained from Database originally designed for the retrieval of scientific information. Thus, especially the JIF has become perhaps the most popular bibliometric measure used in bibliometrics itself, but also outside the scientific community.

JIF developed and promulgated by International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) is completely unique, systematic and scientific way of computation and analysis based on the following parameters

1. Governance and Commercial Quality/ Scientific Quality (110 Point)
2. Editorial quality (190 Points)
3. International presence and Infrastructure (180 Points)
4. Contextual citation (520 Points)

I. Governance and Commercial Quality/ Scientific Quality

The following parameters are being considered for the evaluation.

1. Depends on the National/ International indexation.
2. Number of original research papers in different disciplines.
3. Degree of acceptance of journal in the International and National market. Number of papers published annually from countries outside the journal's country of origin indirectly indicates a degree of the journal's acceptance on the international market. If more international publications the higher the score.
4. Regularity of issuance, which is an important factor for a journal's stability and one of the key evaluation parameter at other international indexing databases
5. We add score to journals on their continued presence on the market.
6. Number of all papers published on annual basis Reflects potential authorship and acceptance for the journal. Papers published in regular issues are considered. Papers published in special issues and supplements are counted as they are considered to undergo the regular peer-review process.
7. Governing bodies for the journal governance - For example, Editorial Board, Journal Advisory Board, Executive Board etc.
8. The International representation in the Editorial Board adds to the score, for it creates a chance to further the journal's development.

II. Editorial quality

1. Quality of Cover page [all the following items should appear clearly: title, ISSN, frequency, volume/issue/part number, month/year etc.,].
2. The leading element of editorial quality is the uniform composition of presented manuscripts and adherence to a journal's instruction for its authors. For example, The summary should count 200-250 words and have a structured form, i.e. reflect structure of an article (background, material and methods, results, conclusion).
3. References and Indices should be presented in consecutive order (as they are cited in the text).
4. Detailed editorial and author guidelines information regarding manuscript preparation

International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) Journal-Impact-Factor (JIF) Journal Master List 2015

5. Editorial information should include a list of Editorial Board members, editorial correspondence addresses, the name and address of the publisher, ISSN and frequency of issuance (monthly, quarterly, bi annual, annual etc)

III. International presence and Infrastructure

International availability is important for the proper development of a scientific journal. Two factors are taken into consideration:

1. The language of publication: English is preferable, since this is the universal
2. Online Internet publications: The internet is an important medium for journal publications and for the exchange of professional information. It is due to its global availability, speed and low cost of publication, in comparison with printed journals. Internet availability enhances a journal's chance of broadening circulation and accelerating development. Access to editorial information, the table of contents, summaries, full text articles and search tools are evaluated. The preferred language of a website is English.
3. Sales and Marketing network and International distribution offices all over the globe for dissemination of journals.
4. Technical quality assesses proper presentation of the scientific content. The quality of the preprint process, especially desktop publishing (DTP), the ability to print in colour, and the quality of paper are evaluated.

IV. Contextual citation

International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) provides a base for evaluating the quality of papers by stressing on the Context which depends on two important parameters. Viz., Coherence and Relevance.

International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) takes into consideration the following factors for evaluating the Coherence and Relevance parameters.

- Statement of the problem
- The way by which the purpose is established in the given context
- Methodologies followed for substantiating / justifying the proceedings / results / outcomes

In addition to this, the context is classified into two types:

- a. Geographical context
- b. Subject matter context

International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) furnishes weightages (Weightages are computed based on the empirical study of millions of research papers) for all the above four factors and the weightages are applied and finally, ISRA: JIF is computed.

Five year ISRA:JIF - One year of citations to five years of articles

Review articles generally are cited more frequently than typical research articles because they often serve as surrogates for earlier literature, especially in journals that discourage extensive bibliographies. In the International Society for

International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) Journal-Impact-Factor (JIF) Journal Master List 2015

Research Activity (ISRA) system any article containing more than 50 references is coded as a review. The Source Data Listing in JIF report not only provides data on the number of reviews in each journal but also provides the average number of references cited in that journal's articles.

Naturally, review journals have some of the highest ISRA:JIF. Often, the first-ranked journal in the subject category listings will be a review journal.

Different specialties exhibit different ranges of ISRA:JIF. That is why the International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) provides subject category listings. In this way, journals may be viewed in the context of their specific field. Still, a five -year impact may be more useful to some users and can be calculated by combining the statistical data available from consecutive years. It is rare to find that the ranking of a journal will change significantly within its designated category unless the journal's influence has indeed changed

Let us see how Five year ISRA:JIF is calculated now:

A= citations in 2012 to articles published in 2006-2011

B= articles published in 2006-2011

C= (A/B) + (Total Score/1000) = Five-year ISRA:JIF

Description: IJMMF follows open access policy so that everyone can benefit published papers free of charge. We think that this policy is a method for future as our journal title is also referring to foresight. We believe that the trend for open access journal is positive and in the near future all journals will follow this style. As referred in the title of the journal "modern management" and "foresight" or "futures studies" is the most concerning subjects for us. Any paper related to these scopes is paid attention over other papers. We believe that futures studies are so important as a fundamental tool for completion of other studies which should be focused more at the present and future. This journal main aim is to improve this attention. We are also interested to new trends, methods, thoughts, discoveries, and any other modern movements in all fields of management, social sciences, behavioral sciences, humanities, technology, business, economics, and etc. All papers related to these subjects are welcome.

Description: Ayurveda, the science of life, which is said to be Anadi and Ananta has been serving the mankind since age old. Though it is a time tested science, the need for refreshing the ancient knowledge with recent advanced research is necessary. But it is not enough to have an innovative idea in one's own mind; it's not enough that a Vaidya successfully treats a patient and doesn't report it; it's not enough that a talented research scholar makes all the efforts and come out with a critical review on various untouched concepts of Ayurveda and doesn't bother to publish them. In this regard, with an intention to encourage the UG/PG scholars, practitioners and also the teaching faculty in the field of Ayurveda, to publish their, interesting case reports, thought provoking reviews on unique concepts and also the research they do in colleges, hospitals and various other institutions Anveshana Ayurveda Medical Journal has been started.

Description: Ayurveda, the science of life, which is said to be Anadi and Ananta has been serving the mankind since age old. Though it is a time tested science, the need for refreshing the ancient knowledge with recent advanced research is necessary. But it is not enough to have an innovative idea in one's own mind; it's not enough that a Vaidya successfully treats a patient and doesn't report it; it's not enough that a talented research scholar makes all the efforts and come out with a critical review on various untouched concepts of Ayurveda and doesn't bother to publish them. In this regard, with an intention to encourage the UG/PG scholars, practitioners and also the teaching faculty in the field of Ayurveda, to publish their, interesting case reports, thought provoking reviews on unique concepts and also the research they do in colleges, hospitals and various other institutions Anveshana Ayurveda Medical Journal has been started.

Description: The Gurukul International Multidisciplinary Research Journal has been the Team for information professionals leading the search for new and better research, theories, techniques, management, culture and technologies to improve access to information. Gurukul Journal brings together diverse streams of knowledge, focusing what might be disparate approaches into novel solutions to common problems. Gurukul Journal bridges the gaps not only between disciplines but also between the research that drives and the practices that sustain new developments. Gurukul Journal counts among its membership to all information specialists from All subjects & Various fields; individuals who share a common interest in improving the ways society stores, retrieves, analyzes, manages, archives and disseminates information, coming together for mutual benefit. Techniques and technologies emerge daily in the All subjects & Various fields. Yet information professionals in one discipline are often unaware of key developments in others. What an irony that a field advocating the development, sharing and use of information is itself isolated. If you don't like working in isolation, examine what Gurukul Journal has to offer. This Web site will introduce you to Gurukul Journal and the ways it can make you more effective information professional and more indispensable to your company, institution or organization.

Description: Advances in Medical and Dental Research (AMDR) is a multidisciplinary, peer-reviewed, open-access, freely accessible international medical and dental research journal. The Advances in Medical and Dental Research is published half yearly (January-June and July-December, 2 issues per year). AMDR publishes peer reviewed quality biomedical research in the form of original research articles, review articles, editorial, case reports, short communications, images in medical practice, clinical problem solving etc. Criteria for consideration of papers - The papers should meet the following criteria – the material should be original, the methodology used should be standard and appropriate, results should be unambiguous supported with data/photographs, conclusions should be reasonable and based on the findings, the topic should be of biomedical interest and findings should have clinical significance. Papers involving human and animals should be ethically cleared by the local ethical committees. Manuscript should be prepared in accordance with the Guidelines set by the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE) as uniform requirements for manuscripts submitted to biomedical journals. We covers all departments of medical and dental specialties and extensive support to author is given in areas of manuscript preparation, statistical analysis, literature search, fast and prompt reviewing of manuscript etc. The scientific information published in the journal reflects the views of the authors and not of the Journal or its editorial board. Advances in Medical and Dental Research or its editorial board cannot be held responsible for any wrong scientific information published in the journal. Duplication or reduplication of earlier published in any journal will not be entertained by Advances in Medical and Dental Research.

Description: International Journal of Engineering Research and Sports Science (IJERSS) aims to cover the latest outstanding developments in the field of all Engineering Technologies & Sports science. International Journal of Engineering Research and Sports Science (IJERSS) is a team of researchers not publication services or private publications running the journals for monetary benefits, we are association of scientists and academia who focus only on supporting authors who want to publish their work. The articles published in our journal can be accessed online, all the articles will be archived for real time access. Our journal system primarily aims to bring out the research talent and the works done by scientists, academia, engineers, practitioners, scholars, post graduate students of engineering and science. This journal aims to cover the scientific research in a broader sense and not publishing a niche area of research facilitating researchers from various verticals to publish their papers. It is also aimed to provide a platform for the researchers to publish in a shorter of time, enabling them to continue further All articles published are freely available to scientific researchers in the Government agencies,educators and the general public. We are taking serious efforts to promote our journal across the globe in various ways, we are sure that our journal will act as a scientific platform for all researchers to publish their works online.
